However, Austin-Smith:Lord recognises that there may be occasions where misunderstandings and disputes arise with clients, co-consultants or third parties through our professional work. We encourage dialogue as being the first course of actions to seek a resolution. However, where a matter cannot be resolved in a mutually satisfactory manner and a complaint arises, the following procedure should be followed:

Step 1

Please raise your complaint in writing to the Project Leader responsible for the project. The Project Leader will endeavour to answer and resolve any issues through correspondence and/or meetings.

Step 2

If you are dissatisfied and do not feel the matter has been resolved, please write to the Executive Director responsible for the project.

Once the Executive Director has reviewed your written summary of the complaint, we will contact you in writing within fourteen days to inform you of our understanding of the circumstances leading to your complaint.

You will be invited to make any comments that you may have in relation to this. Within a further twenty-one day period, we will advise you of the outcome of our investigation and inform you what actions have been or will be taken.

Step 3

If you are still dissatisfied, please write to Graham Ross, Chief Executive Officer, at 25 Bothwell Street, Glasgow G2 6NL advising the name of project in question and outlining your complaint.

The CEO will acknowledge your letter within seven days and within a further fourteen days will he will write to you to advise the outcome of his review of your complaint and advise what further actions have been or will be taken.

If you remain dissatisfied with the handling of your complaint, there are two further options you may wish to consider:
